School Board debates minimum enrollment for language courses

At its regular meeting Monday night the SADA#44 Board of Directors discussed eliminating the requirement that all third-year foreign language classes have a minimum enrollment equal to at least five percent of the total number of students at that grade level.

The minimum class enrollment requirement for such classes had been established by the board in 1984. A number of board members spoke in support of an article eliminating the requirement, but the board tabled the article until the next board meeting in order to allow Superintendent Downie Craig time to probe further into the history of the 1984 action and the consequences of undoing it.

Postponement of the vote will also make it possible for concerned teachers and parents to attend the next meeting and present their views on the matter to the full board.

Newry begins course for first responders

A first responders course will begin in Newry, at the town office, tomorrow, Oct. 28, at 6:30 p.m. Classes will be held each week for 15 weeks. The cost for the entire course is $20, however the town will reimburse those students who successfully complete the course and agree to serve as first responders. So far, seven people have signed up to take the course, according to Pam Cookright, who reported to the Board of Selectmen Tuesday.

The selectmen discussed the town's books with Chris Bragg, who completed the annual audit of the books.

Bruce Lajowski, food and beverage manager for Sunday River Ski Resort, called the selectmen to have the liquor licenses renewed for Barker's, Lodge, Saturday Night Out, and the Mountain Gracer.

The newly appointed Ordinance Review Committee met Monday evening for the first time and elected Leslie Otten chairman. Other committee members are Steve Wright of the Board of Selectmen, Mike Lynch, Veronica Smith and

Woodstock boards differ on penalty for alleged septic system violation

Woodstock's newly inaugurated planning board last week recommended that a fine of $2,500, the maximum allowed for a first offense, be imposed for an alleged septic system violation on Maguer's Island (or Echo Island) in Lake Umbagog.

Town selectmen, however, demurred from applying the full penalty and voted 2-1 to halve the fine being levied on Richard W. Carlson, of Washington, D.C., owner of the island property.

Citing confusion on both sides during the review and approval process, George Hooper argued for reducing the planning board's proposed fine. "I don't think that it sets a good precedent for a new planning board. I don't think they want everyone to think that they're out there with a baseball bat."

Edith Davis sided with Hooper, but Gary Wing held out for the full fine. Referring to numerous alleged violations during construction and renovation work on the island, Wing said, "He [Carlson] just kicked the planning board and the town in the teeth. We bent over backward

Water District lifts moratorium on new hook-ups

The Bethel Water District has lifted the moratorium it imposed last spring on hook-ups to new multi-family developments.

The moratorium was imposed after a number of large condominium projects began radically increasing the number of families using town water. Thus, while the Eden Ridge condominium project and The Bethel Inn project will get town water, the Mill Brook project will dig its own well.

The moratorium on new hook-ups to multi-family developments stayed in effect while a hydrologist did a study of the town's water supply. In lifting the moratorium, water district foreman Don Kallin said the study showed there is adequate water in the system for the time being.

The water district, which is a public utility, gets its water from Chapman Brook and brings it across the Am

Health Center director submits resignation

Blissa Thibodeau, president of the board of trustees, Northern Oxford Health and Service Council, has announced the resignation of Shirley Powell, executive director, Bethel Area Health Center. Ms. Powell has accepted a position with Rural Health Centers of Maine Inc. in Augusta, effective Jan. 2, 1988.

The board and Ms. Powell are committed to working together during the next two months to effect a smooth transition.

Big crowd attends retirement party for Bob Davis

A crowd of about 250 people filled the Bethel Inn Conference Center Friday night to wish him and farewell to Bob Davis, the town's public works director who retires next week. Mr. Davis began work on the town's road crew in 1947 and has been director of the department since 1960.

Following dinner, Mr. Davis and his wife of nearly 40 years, Polly—they were married Dec. 1, 1947 at the Sudbury Inn—sat up at the head table and modestly accepted the praise (and good-natured ribbing) of a dozen speakers. Many also presented gifts.

Norma Jodrey, Mr. Davis' early babysitter, presented the honoree with a baby bottle, which she said was needed to get the toddler off to bed—even when he was no longer a toddler.

Bill Clough, headmaster of Gould Academy, presented a gift certificate to the couple for a weekend at The Balsam, in Dixville Notch, N.H. Mrs. Davis is the receptionist at the prep school.

Charlie Smith, a grade school friend of Mr. Davis when the two of them attended school on the Flat Road in West Bethel, related that the road foreman-to-be was a gangly youth, which won him the nickname "Tanglefoot" from Herbert McKennie. Dr. Smith said the young Davis was also hampered on the ballfield by being a left-handed catcher—the school only had one catcher's mitt, and it was meant for right-handed catchers. Thus, Davis would have to catch the ball in the mitt on his left hand, take off the

THE REBELS GIRLS' FIELD HOCKEY TEAM heads for Freeport this afternoon (Wednesday) to play for the Western Maine Class C championship. The Rebels earned their shot at the title by dethroning three-time defending state champion Dirigo in 150 minutes of exhausting defensive hockey, played Saturday and Monday on the Cougars' home field in Dixfield.

On Saturday the Rebels and Cougars fought through regulation play plus six overtimes to an exhausting 9-0 tie, forcing Monday's replay.

The stalemate continued until mid-way through the second half of Monday's game, when Sheri Doon took a free hit into the circle from Vicky Hutchinson and slammed it past the Cougar goalie for the winning—and only—score.

Both games were draining defensive exhibitions in which the Rebels were up against an outstanding Dirigo team that had rolled to a 12-1 regular season record.

They also had to contend with Fernando Ferrer, a Spanish exchange student with intimidating strength and speed. "He's exceptionally strong," said Rebel coach Kelly Scott. "We had to play him close and not give him any openings."

Christine Hunt and Angie Jordan drew that assignment and contained Ferrer so well that he grew visibly frustrated as the games wore on.

Opinions

It's going-into-debt-time again

On the Nov. 3 ballot, voters will be asked whether they want to incur additional bonded indebtedness of $159 million, including principal and interest.

Once again, state legislators have declined to raise enough money for projects they feel the state needs, preferring to sit on the sidelines and let the voters sort out the issues. Voters will do well to look carefully at the issues and not take on this additional new debt lightly.

The proposed $159 million of indebtedness is in addition to $414 million the state already owes on previous bond issues. There is another $181 million in bonds authorized by past elections but not yet issued. If all the bond issues on the ballot pass, state taxpayers will be facing a debt of $754 million.

While Question #1 on the ballot (the Maine Yankee referendum) has generated the most interest among voters, the bond issues also require informed judgment.

Question #2: Do you want to borrow and spend $8 million for cleaning up and closing solid waste landfills that pose a hazard to public health? The money will mostly be spent as grants to municipalities for closing questionable landfill sites; $1.5 million will be used by state agencies for evaluating the sites and helping towns plan their closure. This is a worthwhile project in order to help keep the environment—including the people of Maine—healthy.

Question #3: Do you want to borrow and spend $8.3 million for constructing sewage treatment facilities in some municipalities? While state officials have not divulged which towns will be helped with these funds, it seems that any money spent on improving sewage systems in the state is money well spent. In this case, $2 million of the money raised will trigger a $10 million matching loan from the federal government.

Question #4: Do you want to borrow and spend $6 million to set up a Maine Business and Job Development Program? The only jobs this program is likely to create is another level of bureaucrats. While the stated purpose is to aid small businesses that may then create new jobs, the program will duplicate programs that already exist. Both Bethel Craftworks and Mt. Abram Ski Slopes have benefited from small business loans extended by state agencies. These programs are in place and working. Another agency is not needed and is a bureaucratic boondoggle.

Question #5: Do you want to borrow and spend $3.1 million to reconstruct the pier at the Maine Maritime Academy? What sort of shape is the pier in? When was it built? When was it last rebuilt? State officials provide no answers to these questions. Nevertheless, the fact that Maine Maritime intends to accept ownership of a deep sea research vessel, in addition to its present training ship, argues for a more substantial pier for the state's only maritime academy.

Question #6: Do you want to borrow and spend $3 million for the removal of leaking oil storage tanks? The Legislature last year ordered the removal of all fuel tanks 15 years old and older, with the oldest tanks and those located over aquifers and sensitive geological areas to be removed within the next two to four years. This money would help towns and individuals comply with the law. However, only $500,000 would actually go to tank removal; the remaining $2.5 million would go for clean-up efforts.

Question 7: Do you want to borrow and spend $8 million for removing asbestos from state facilities? Embarrassed to be asking for maintenance funds in a bond issue, state officials have divided their request into two bond issues. This question seeks $8 million for maintenance work; Question #11 seeks another $6 million for maintenance work. Asbestos is dangerous to health and should be removed. The method for allocating funds for it is the same as allocating funds for painting buildings, insulating buildings or improving buildings with new heating or air-conditioning systems. Bonds should be used strictly for capital improvements. If state officials want money for maintenance programs in state facilities, they should raise it and appropriate it in the budget. State officials don't really know how much it will cost to clean up the asbestos in state facilities and have said that any excess money borrowed under these two questions would go into a slush fund.

Question #8: Do you want to borrow and spend $8 million for new school buses? This is a proper use of borrowed money, and new school buses are always needed.

Question #9: Do you want to borrow and spend $26.5 million for highway, bridge and airport improvements? Again, this is the way the state funds such projects. In addition to paying for the above projects, nearly $1 million of this bond issue would be given to towns having pollution problems from sand and salt piles. The Town of Woodstock, which has such problems, might get some needed aid from this bond issue.

Question #10: Do you want to borrow and spend $35 million to purchase public land access? This is a lot of money, and it won't purchase very much land. Consider: coastal land sells for about $100,000 per acre, while inland acreage goes for between $1,000 and $10,000 per acre. This said, it must also be kept in mind that prices are unlikely to decrease. If the people of Maine want to add to the 900,000 acres presently owned by the state (about 2 percent of total state acreage), this is a good time to start. The recent Moody Beach ruling—taking the beach away from the public—indicates guaranteed public access to recreational land is needed.

Question #11: Do you want to borrow and spend $6 million for detection and removal of asbestos in state facilities and public schools? This is abdication of responsibility on the part of state officials. See comments in Question #7, above.

That is the end of the bond issues. There are also two proposed constitutional amendments. The first—Question #12 on the ballot—asks: "Shall the Constitution of Maine be amended to clarify the rights of citizens to keep and bear arms?" The state constitution presently states: "Every citizen has a right to keep and bear arms for the common defense, and this right shall never be questioned." In practice, this right never is questioned. Unless one is a convicted felon, getting

A man for all seasons

Bob Davis, who retires next week after 40 years working for the town, will be hard to replace. The man kept the town's roads repaired and plowed, led the fire department, organized disaster relief, lent a helping hand wherever he could.

Through it all, he never lost his sense of humor; he never had a bad word for the people he worked with or the people he worked for.

The town wishes him well in his retirement. bfw

The nuke plant we love to hate

Having failed in two previous attempts to shut down Maine Yankee, opponents of the plant will try again next Tuesday. But this time they think Mainers will opt for shutting down the plant. The difference between 1987 and previous referendum years is that in 1986 the federal Department of Energy listed Maine as one of seven eastern and midwestern states being looked at as a possible site for a high-level nuclear waste dump. Proponents of the shutdown of Maine Yankee argue that the DOE will not locate a waste dump in a state that doesn't have a nuclear power plant.

Is this really the case? The DOE is presently looking mainly for a nuclear dump site in the wide open spaces of the western U.S. The prime candidates for a site are Washington, Texas and Nevada. Nevada seems to be the leading candidate, and yet Nevada doesn't have a nuclear power plant.

DOE officials have said they don't really want to pursue the search for an eastern site because it seems the western site will accommodate all the high-level waste in the country—now and into the future. Nevertheless, unless Congress amends the law authorizing deep burial of nuclear wastes, the DOE is, by this law, ordered to identify—but not construct—a second site. In any case, the whole question of burial of high-level nuclear wastes is presently up in the air, and what happens at Maine Yankee will not influence the question in the least.

Proponents of shutting down the plant also argue that the state will be forced to open a low-level nuclear waste site if Maine Yankee continues in operation. By federal law, the state will indeed have to open a low-level site in a few years—with or without Maine Yankee. According to the state Advisory Commission on Radioactive Waste, there are 40 producers of low-level nuclear waste in the state. (Low-level waste is items contaminated by radioactivity, such as clothing, mops, and containers. High-level waste is spent nuclear fuel rods. The difference between high-level and low-level nuclear waste is that high-level waste is much more dangerous and remains radioactive for a much longer period of time—an estimated 10,000 years.)

According to the Advisory Commission on Radioactive Waste—whose members, by the way, differ on the question of shutting down Maine Yankee—the 40 producers of low-level nuclear waste in the state, including hospitals, labs, factories, and Maine Yankee, produce 11,000 cubic feet of waste annually. Maine Yankee accounts for 8,000 cubic feet of this waste. Nevertheless, even without Maine Yankee, Maine will have to take care of its own low-level waste, which means setting up a low-level waste site in the next decade.

While the question of shutting down Maine Yankee has been tied to the question of nuclear waste, this is really not the essential consideration. Since a shutdown would have no effect on the federal government's high-level waste dump plans or on the state's low-level waste dump plans, the most important consequence of shutting down the plant would be: where would we get power from.

The plant supplies the largest single block of the state's power: Bangor Hydro gets 28 percent of its electricity from Maine Yankee; Central Maine Power gets 26 percent of its electricity from Maine Yankee; and Maine Public Service gets 46 percent of its electricity from Maine Yankee.

To be sure, these utility companies can purchase power elsewhere, but it will be at much higher rates, which means higher rates for Mainers.

Nuclear power, once thought to be the cheap power source for the 21st century and beyond, is not ultimately cheap. The high-level waste from the spent fuel rods is a curse that this generation will bequeath to succeeding generations out to the year 12,000—if the world lasts that long. We have opened the Pandora's box of the nuclear age and cannot close it.

But what we can do is plan for a non-nuclear future. Maine Yankee has permission to operate only until the year 2008. Utility companies are already planning alternatives to be phased in before Maine Yankee is phased out. (Unfortunately, CMP is looking to trade a poor alternative—imported Canadian power—for the existing poor situation.) Maine voters should allow this planned phasing in of alternative energy sources to continue. To demand that the state's utilities find alternative sources of economical power in eight months—the shutdown would take place before July 1988 according to the referendum—is unrealistic. bfw a gun or a concealed weapon permit is not a problem. The Maine guarantee stems from the second amendment to the U.S. Constitution, contained in the Bill of Rights: "A well-regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed." This federal guarantee, more than the repetition of it in the state constitution, is what allows Mainers to keep arms—at home, in pickup trucks, wherever. The proposed constitutional amendment would eliminate the phrase "for the common defense." Article 16 of the state constitution would thus read: "Every citizen has a right to keep and bear arms, and this right shall never be questioned." This is not what the Bill of Rights says, nor what it meant. Should this state constitutional amendment pass, it would likely be struck down in federal court, if challenged.

Question #13, another proposed constitutional amendment, asks: "Shall the Constitution of Maine be amended to require a candidate for State Representative or State Senator to be a resident in the district which the candidate seeks to represent at the time he is nominated to be placed on any election ballot?" While the idea embodied in this amendment is worthwhile, it was obviously drafted in haste and is flawed. First, while the question relates to representatives and senators, the actual amendment, as contained in the Secretary of State's handbook on the election, deals only with the House of Representatives. Second, since qualification to the state Legislature is not restricted to men only, the wording of the amendment should not imply that there is such a restriction. The amendment should be voted down until the drafting flaws are corrected. bfw

Superintendent's Newsletter

Dewaine B. Craig

While in school, each of you may have taken a field trip at one time or another. Field trips are a vital component to any school program. The second grade field trip to the fire station, post office, or bank can have long lasting and positive memories for a youngster.

During the past few years many changes have taken place in the field trip concept. Most of us would think of a field trip as an event where the teacher and students leave the school and travel to another site. That is still one of the ways that a field trip does occur. However, the schools are making greater use of the in-school field trip.

An in-school field trip is when guest speakers and programs are brought into the schools either for an individual classroom or the entire school. This is not a new idea. However, it is one which the schools are now taking greater advantage of. The individual programs in the classrooms have ranged from local historians to law enforcement officials to actors. The larger entire school programs have ranged from N.A.S.A. presentations to medical presentations to mime presentations.

Each program has offered the students and faculty the opportunity to hear, view, and sense and expertise of the presenter. In a world which sees the wealth of knowledge triple every few years, we will always need to provide these opportunities for learning.

These various programs provide the students an additional opportunity to learn acceptable manners and decorum. These presentations provide the schools with another opportunity to teach these skills to students. Also, these programs offer the students an enjoyable alternative to regular classroom instruction.

There are many talented individuals and organizations which volunteer their important service to the schools. If you wish to share some of your experiences or knowledge with students, do not hesitate to contact the schools. The next newsletter will detail some of the classroom and curriculum areas which has expanded the field trip concept into a year-long project within the schools.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The $35 million bond issue to acquire public lands in Maine is critical to the future of this state as we all know it. Whenever people are asked about their image of this state, the descriptions are always of large forested lands, wilderness, pristine lakes, and rocky coast. There are indeed many such areas in the state, but they are also mostly privately owned. Maine citizens have traditionally had access to these private lands, but this is changing rapidly due to development pressures.

Maine has less than 5 percent of its 21 million acres in the public domain. Maine ranks 47th out of 50 states in the amount of publicly owned land per resident. As it is for the individual faced with the rising land prices in many parts of the state, so it is for the public. Buy it now, or face the land being unavailable or unaffordable. Imagine what this state would be like with more and more previously accessible land having No Trespassing signs.

This bond issue will affirm our commitment to our vision of Maine as having those beautiful forests, lakes, and coastline open to all of us. The only way to guarantee this vision is for the state to purchase these precious natural resources, before someone else does, vote YES on the $35 million bond issue on election day.

To the Editor:

I have been reading with great concern about the reported noise, and parking situation at the Sudbury Inn. Articles which have been written about this matter seem to have greatly expressed the negative. Yes noise does escape the building when the lower door and sky lights are open, but with closer attention to the sky lights and a double door entrance being planned, this situation should be remedied. Mr. Thurston has gone to great expense to expand his parking and continues to do so to date.

Mr. Saunders has lived next to the Sudbury Inn for several years and purchased his property with full knowledge of how Mr. Thurston runs his business. To bring these issues up now seems rather questionable.

As manager of the River View Motel many of our guests have had dinner, listened to bands or both and have expressed how much they like the Sudbury Inn. For the couple of residents to hanger Mr. Thurston's ability to provide his quality service would be a loss for all of Bethel and its visitors. How quickly images of the old Sudbury Inn fade. It was, I'm told, an eyesore and an embarrassment to our town.

To the Editor:

On Nov. 3, I intend to vote "yes" to keep the Maine Yankee electric generating plant in Wiscasset, Maine's single largest source of safe, clean, low cost electricity. In its 15 years of operation Maine Yankee has set world production records and in 1986 was named the most economical nuclear plant in the U.S.

It provides 25 percent of Maine's electricity (almost one half of northern Maine's electricity) at a cost two to four times less than other sources. A vote to close the plant would force greater reliance on foreign oil as a replacement in the short term at a time when American sailors are risking their lives in the Persian Gulf to protect this costly volatile energy source. Maine's business, industry and residential customers cannot afford the increases in their electric bills resulting from a Maine Yankee shut down. The burden would be particularly heavy on our low income and elderly fixed-income consumers.

Also, a vote to close Maine Yankee would send a negative message to the industrial, business and financial world nationally, and would have an adverse impact on efforts to maintain and build job opportunities and paychecks for Maine people.

I urge a strong "yes" vote on Question 1 to keep the plant generating electricity for the benefit of all Maine people.

To the Editor:

"Nuclear power is mass, random, premeditated murder." So says Dr. John Goffman, the discover of one of the isotopes of plutonium and former government scientist for the nuclear program. He lost his funding when research he did turned up evidence nuclear power waste emissions are more dangerous than the government wanted to know.

More recently, when a Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute scientist turned up evidence that plutonium from Maine Yankee was escaping into the environment, his study was terminated.

Now we know there is no safe place to put the deadly wastes from nuclear electricity. Our children and future generations will pay dearly in health and economic well being forever, essentially, from these radioactive wastes. Military wastes, for smaller in amounts from that of nuclear plants, will have to be stopped too, some day soon. Let us

To the Editor:

I've dedicated my professional life to issues related to health and safety. The upcoming Maine Yankee Referendum is such an issue, and I feel very strongly about it.

Maine Yankee has a national reputation as one of the safest, most efficient and best managed in the industry. The plant has received among the highest safety ratings in the nation from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. I recently visited the plant to study the facility, and it was a very educational experience which solidified my feeling that the plant is well managed and its operators are extremely safety-conscious. Thus, on safety grounds Maine Yankee passes in my book.

A recent study by the Maine State Planning Office estimated that Maine consumers would pay over $1.4 billion over the next 20 years if Maine Yankee were closed or, adding interest rate costs, about $100 million each and every year.

What will we get for that expenditure? Maine Yankee would close, and we would lose all of its low-cost electricity. And there would be no positive benefits.

A major concern for many Mainers is the location of a national nuclear waste dump. I am vehemently against the possible placement of a national waste dump in Maine. Our state does not satisfy the geological criteria for that depository, while hundreds of miles of uninhabited dry rock formation in the West would be ideally suited.

The fact remains, however, that closing Maine Yankee would have no effect on the possible siting of a nuclear waste dump in Maine. Closing the plant would only cut off our largest and least expensive source of electricity.

Given these facts, it seems unjust to burden people on low and fixed incomes, small businesses and farmers who would have great difficulty handling the added stress of increased utility bills. Furthermore, the approximately 140,000 people in Maine who have incomes below the poverty level certainly don't need this kind of unnecessary addition to their expenses.

To put the Maine Yankee Referendum in perspective, I look at it like another bond question. If you add up all the bond requests to the voters over the last 20 years, it would not equal the cost of closing Maine Yankee. This referendum is by far the most costly question ever to face the Maine voters.

To the Editor:

We Mainers are not stupid. We all appreciate the beautiful state that we live in. When a federal agency wanted to site a nuclear waste dump here we told them in no uncertain terms—NO! It was unanimous. Now we also have the chance to show that we are not hypocritical. We refuse to let the junk be forced on us. Shall we now foist it on someone else? There are a couple of facts that we can't escape: Nuclear power, i.e. Maine Yankee, creates deadly waste. We really don't know what to do with the ever-accumulating poison, except maybe bury it deep in someone else's backyard and hope for the best with no earthquakes, mechanical failures or human error.

There is one simple step in the right direction to finally take. Stop creating the waste. If you don't want the junk in your own backyard, then vote your conscience on Nov. 3. Let us again show our wisdom, consistency and ethics. Anything less than another resounding NO! would just show Mainers' hypocrisy.

Jackson Gillman

To the Editor:

On Nov. 3, we will once again be voting on whether or not to close Maine Yankee. As election day gets closer we hear more misinformation each day from CMP. We know that CMP has manipulated figures and twisted the facts concerning the Hydro-Quebec power line. They've done this on the issues involving Maine Yankee too. It is obvious that they are looking only at their own pocketbooks and couldn't care less about the people of Maine. They have invested a lot of money in Maine Yankee and they don't want to close it down until they get everything they can out of it.

They say that closing Maine Yankee is not related to the search for a nuclear waste dump in Maine. In fact, Maine Yankee is a nuclear waste site already. All the spent fuel is sitting in a big pool at the plant. This is high level nuclear waste. Ask CMP what would happen if the water ever came out of that pool. They say Maine Yankee's electricity is cheaper, but they do not figure in the costs of disposing of today's wastes in the future. In fact, they have no long solution as to what they ever will do with it. That will be our children's problem, and as adults they will still be paying for our "cheap" electricity.

Nor do they figure in the costs of a nuclear accident, should one ever occur. Even a relatively minor accident would increase the cost of electricity tremendously. Nuclear power plant become more dangerous—more radioactive as they get older, and are more likely to have accidents.

Maine Publicity Bureau honors Wendie Gray

Wendie Gray, marketing director at Sunday River Ski Resort, has been chosen as this year's recipient of the Maine Publicity Bureau's 4th Annual "Hall of Fame" Award. George Stobie, executive director of the Maine Publicity Bureau, surprised Ms. Gray with the award at the group's 66th annual meeting in Augusta on Monday. In presenting the award, Mr. Stobie credited Ms. Gray with much of the success of Maine's winter season promotion. "Wendie has applied her considerable skills and expertise to attract skiers and winter sports enthusiasts to Maine and has served wherever and whenever asked on the boards of various tourism associations."

Upon graduating from Wellesley (Mass.) College, Ms. Gray started her career at Sugarloaf/USA and the Camden Snowbowl before assuming her present position as marketing director at Sunday River in 1980. She is a past president of the Ski Maine Association and currently serves as its treasurer. She also serves as vice-president of Ski New England marketing group and is an active member of Ski U.S.A. A past member of the executive committee of the Maine Publicity Bureau, she now serves as that organization's treasurer. She also has been appointed to the Governor's Tourism Commission for the past three years.

Ms. Gray also takes an active role on statewide issues and local concerns. Presently she co-chairs the committee in favor of the $35 million bond issue for public land acquisition. In addition, she is president of the Bethel Area Railroad Museum and is a past director of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

energy projects will stay on the back burner. If it goes, there will be more pressure to environmentally safe alternatives.

One more point before I close. We consumers will be paying more for our electricity anyway, whether Maine Yankee closes or not, to pay for CMP's expensive TV and ad campaign to try to save Maine Yankee. Let's see CMP put some money into alternative energy research instead of pumping millions into expensive TV advertising to save a dead horse.

I urge you to vote NO on question #1 and vote for a safe and nuclear free future.

Robinson was credited with 11 saves in Saturday's game, a performance Scott described as "excellent, outstanding, almost incredible. Some of her stops were just unbelievable."

It will take a similar performance by the entire Rebel team to get by Freeport (also 12-1-1 in regular season play). If the Rebels do win again today, they will play the Eastern Maine Class C winner for the state title.

If today's game is rained out it will be played Thursday.

Citizens Conference begins this Friday

The Citizens Community Conference for people from the SAD #44 area towns begins at 9 a.m. on Friday, Oct. 31, at the Bethel Inn Conference Center, with a day of discussion and planning focused on critical issues facing the area.

The Conference is a project of the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program and the Bethel/NTL Liaison Committee. Eva Schindler-Rainmann, a consultant based in Los Angeles and longtime NTL member, will act as facilitator for the session, with Planning Committee members Sue O'Donnell, Jakki Wiese, Bill Riley, and Rodney Lynch assisting.

According to the Adult and Community Education office, preliminary registrations reflect a good blend of longtime residents and those who have moved to the area more recently. Among the most popular issues would seem to be affordable housing, access to recreation, and preservation of small town character. The interests of those attending will direct the agenda of the day. There is no fee for the Conference, with costs underwritten by donations. Lunch will be provided by the Conference Planning Committee to all participants.

Anyone who would like to register for the Conference should call the Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780, so that the committee can plan for seating and food.

It was a clear bracing day mellow with the richness of October when I hiked to my favorite fields at the farm. Covering its length so many hundreds of times, I have come to know it almost inch by inch. I have watched the changes that have taken place along it, through all seasons and from year to year. So far I have never missed climbing the hill in October. Autumn is more mature, more reflective, when I balance it with the optimism of spring and returning flowers. Fall speaks of the balance of the seasons and what beauty it holds.

To me this farm has a special kind of harvest. It is not unused. The fields for me are made-up of observations and of memories and little adventures over the years. A strong element of fun has run through it all.

As I walked on the hill, gazing up, I could see some leaf let go and come drifting down toward me. When I listened carefully I could catch the dry scrape and talk of the foliage fluttering down. On the dry carpet I could hear the progress of a small animal, the hop of a bird or the successive leap of a chipmunk which I had alarmed. It is their time of year. On walls, stumps, and rotting logs sunny autumn brings the loud "Chip! chip! chip!" repeated over and over again. I never had patience enough to stay and count the number of times it called.

After sitting for some time and memorizing all the beauty; I started down the hill thinking of another October Day and the lines of Stanley Foss Bartlett:

"There's a whisper in the woodland,
There's a murmur in the brake,
There's a scudlet gypsy maple,
Dancing by the mirror lake."

Early in the week I had a surprise visit from Jim and Irene Leopold from Bridgton. Irene was a classmate of mine at Boise Cascade has begun cutting in the Grafton-Upton area near the Will Bartlett place. We are treated to the sounds and sights of the exhaust as the skidders and chain saws become active.

We have seen several large flocks of geese heading south. One day the forecast was for cold and snow and looks like they took it seriously.

Thursday evening the sun was very red at sunset and I recalled the time many years ago when the sun was blood red night after night and dropped behind the hills more than set. This was the year the great fires were raging in southern Oxford and York counties. We were on the fringes, but were fearful of being in the midst.

The selectmen called a meeting to discuss the matter. This was before women's lib, bra-burning and Ms. were proving something and when one gentleman gallantly said that the first thing to do if the forest around us was blazing was to get the women and children to safety, one lady emphatically declared she was staying put, and a murmur around the hall decided the group to think another line. Typically, we didn't agree on much, but some of the precautions mentioned such as a bulldozed road or a small pond were inspiring and a patrol was set up. Later that evening, the radio broadcast an interview with an author who had written about the fire as it was 40 years ago. I'm glad the forests in this area are here to harvest and have been all through the years.

Terry Beauchamp picked up a stray German shepherd pup or young dog and has taken it to Dr. Hersey in Rumford Center.

Saturday, Oct. 23, a lot of stars were visible, but there was some thunder and lightning.

It was a very unusual occurrence when a car-hauler truck was driven up Backstreet and in our driveway Monday. The drive was our son, Edd, who had cars to deliver in northern New Hampshire so requested a two-day layover to visit.

Friday night, Marta Clements and Mary Miclon went to Augusta where they met with Marta's sister Shirley Harvey of Northport. They had a supper out and visited awhile. Shirley Harvey is leaving for Zephyrhills, Fla., very soon where they spend the winter.

Esther Davis has been with me several days during the day and has carried me to Dr. Tehao at Lewiston for eye trouble twice. We go again Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews and Lillian Harmon called on Olive Davis Saturday afternoon. Arthur, Sylvia, and Esther washed double windows and put them on while I visited with my sister, Lillian, in the car. It is so nice to have such good help in time of trouble. I surely do appreciate them all.

Esther Davis and Vera Buck attended the supper at West Sumner Saturday night. They reported a large crowd present. Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway also attended the supper and dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Benson and boys went up north for a moose hunt this week. We all wish them luck.

Little Brooks called on me Sunday afternoon. She is going to do the lecturers work for me Monday night as I am unable to attend.

Tripp and Mrs. Grace Nelson went to Auburn for dinner at one of the restaurants there Wednesday. The occasion was for her birthday.

Mrs. Sarah Grover, Mrs. Harriet Brown and Mrs. Helen Grover attended a personal shower given to Mrs. Dan Reynolds of Albany Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bryan of Lovell had his aunt, Mrs. Grace Nelson, for supper Saturday night as it was her 80th birthday. She was presented a cake.

On Oct. 21, Jon Thurston the 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Thurston was one of the lucky moose hunters. He with accompanying hunter, Arthur Hutchins, bagged a 795 pound moose with antlers that measured five feet one and three quarter inches. A very excited and proud boy.

Mrs. Barbara Flaherty and Mrs. Walter Jodrey returned on Wednesday after spending a week in San Diego. While there Mrs. Flaherty visited her son, Mr. and Mrs. John Grover and son, Michael, and they visited the "Pumpkin Patch", Sea World and many other points of interest.

Mrs. Jodrey visited her son, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Purcell, and children, Francis and Marjorie, in Mira Mesa. While there they visited the Del Mar Race Track and saw the Jaguar Company's entry in the big auto race scheduled for Oct. 24, and the Aero Space Museum at Balboa Park and many other places of interest especially the "Old Farm." It's a Spanish part of San Diego where the first Spanish people lived which is preserved. Mrs. Rex Thurston met them at the Portland Jetport on Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Reed of Enfield, Conn., spent the week in Andover. Douglas Reed visited with his mother, Mrs. Beatrice Dresser in Andover while Mrs. Doris Reed visited in East Andover with her father, Howard Glover.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Warren of Topsfield, Mass., cousins of Mrs. Beatrice Dresser, visited her one day last week. The Warrens recently purchased property on the Upton Road from Mr. Lyons where they set up a trailer. Mr. Warren's grandfather was a resident of Upton, Maine, for a time. Mr. Warren serves as chief of police at Topsfield, Mass., and Mrs. Warren is secretary at the school there.

Rex Thurston and son, Jon Thurston, Arthur Hutchins, Wayne Delano and Ronald Thurston of Arundel returned on Wednesday night after a successful moose hunting trip to the Patten, Maine, area. David Anderson was guest speaker at the First Congregational Church on Sunday, Oct. 18. The invocation and Lord's prayer by Sharon Hutchins, responsive lesson by Bonnie Thibodeau, children's sermon by Ann Bishop, special music was a solo by David Anderson, offertory sentences by Kathy Williamson, sharing concerns by Dianne Cutting, stewardship moment by Pat Wyman, and Mrs. Bailey was substitute organist.

Chris and Alicia Gonzales, children of Mr. and Mrs. George Gonzales (nee Sandy Spidell), are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Spidell, for a few weeks.

Thomas McGuire of Newton, Mass., has purchased the Josephine Poor house and he or friends will spend the weekends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Trine of Los Angeles, Calif., who have been visiting his brother Mr. and Mrs. Louis Trine, and Michelle, left on Oct. 15 for New York and Washington, D.C., where he had business before returning to their home in California.

Calvary Congregational Church
Meditation: II Thess. 2:16—"Everlasting consolation and good hope through grace."

Rev. Donald Grover continued his series of messages on "Missions." Morning hymn of praise, "Fair Lord Jesus." The choir sang, "I Want To Be Faithful." Missionary moments: The pastor shared a letter from Margaret Pearson, Kenya, Africa. She is teaching missionary children in that area. Closing hymn, "I'd Rather Have Jesus."

Every Friday at 3 p.m. there is a youth group for all ages. Barbara Bailey, Pastor and Mrs. Grover, Marge Stinson, are leading these groups.

Each Wednesday morning, 9-11 a.m., pre-school group, Bible stories, puppets, at Marge Stinson's with Barbara Bailey assisting. Bring your pre-schoolers.

The Christian finds safety, not in the absence of danger, but in the presence of God.

Go Ye—It was a Jew who brought the gospel to Rome; a Roman who took it to France; a Frenchman who took it to Scandinavia; a Scotsman who evangelized Ireland; and an Irishman in turn made the missionary conquest of Scotland. No people have ever received the gospel except at the hands of an alien.

Freedom does not give us the right to do as we please, but the liberty to do as we ought.

Historical Society receives preservation award

The Bethel Historical Society was honored with a preservation award for its "diligent and dedicated service in support of the preservation of Maine's historic and cultural heritage" by the Maine Historic Preservation Commission at its quarterly meeting held at the Norlands in Livermore. Director Stanley R. Howe accepted the award on behalf of the Society from Maine Historic Preservation Commission chairman Christopher Glass of Camden. In making the award, Mr. Glass read the following citation:

"Located in the Dr. Moses Mason House, a restored 19th century residence, the Bethel Historical Society is Oxford County's leading organization in history and preservation. Under its director, Stanley Howe, and its curator of collections, Randall Bennett, the Bethel Historical Society has made the Moses Mason House into a model house museum and education center for local history. The county-wide range of this group's activities is most evident in its publication, Oxford County, Maine: A Guide to Its Historic Architecture. This widely acclaimed book by Mr. Bennett is a compilation of the results of a historic building survey conducted under the direction of the Bethel Historical Society in 1982-83 with the assistance of the Maine Historic Preservation Commission. The book will serve as a model for similar efforts in Maine's other counties and bring into focus the important architectural resources of western Maine."

In his remarks accepting the award, Director Howe thanked the Maine Historic Preservation Commission chairman for his kind remarks and praised the many volunteers who have made much of the Society's progress possible. Dr. Howe also cited the outstanding work of Randall Bennett and expressed appreciation to all those who have supported the Society in many ways through the years.

The Bethel Historical Society, founded in 1966, included among its activities monthly meetings, exhibits, lectures, school programs, special events, and publications. Its quarterly The Bethel Courier is distributed to over 800 members in 29 states and three Canadian provinces.

This award follows another major one presented to the Society earlier this month by the Maine League of Historical Societies and Museums for "an outstanding contribution to state and local history."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Carl Glidden, the employees of the TGA, and all our friends who baked goodies to make our food sale such a success.

Andover Public Library

In conjunction with Literacy Awareness Month the children at Andover Elementary School have been visiting the public library this month. Mrs. Barbara Sablin's kindergarten and Mrs. Adrienne Gallant's first grade visited Oct. 5. There was a discussion on conduct and courtesy toward other library users and treatment of facilities. After two Halloween stories were read to encourage familiarity and comfort with the surroundings the group learned how to check out and return materials and to recognize and report damage. Mrs. Anna Thurston and Mrs. Betty Misrocchi, school librarian, were chaperones that day.

On Oct. 7 Mrs. Vicky Meisner's second grade visited. They were given a tour of the children's section introducing the library's physical arrangement including easy books and children's periodicals. The card catalog was used to look up the name of the book and its author and then the book was found on the shelves. A puzzle was then pieced together to learn the skill of alphabetization. Those who did not have a library card filled one out on that day.

On Oct. 14, Mrs. Carol Emery's Rainbow Nursery School visited. There was a short discussion on conduct and courtesy in the library. A Halloween story was read and then the group looked through some books on loan to the library from the Maine State Library, played tapes and made puzzles. Before they left the procedure was learned on how to check out books.

The library has just received from the IRS booklets on "The Explanation of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 for Individuals," "The Explanation of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 for Businesses" and "1987 Required Distribution from Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs)." Anyone is welcome to pick one up during library hours: Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.; Thursday evening, 5 to 8 p.m.

New books received at the library:

Adult fiction—Amy Girl by Bari Wood; The Unwanted by John Saul; The Dark Tower II: The Drawing of the Three by Stephen King; Winifred by Doris Miles Disney; Perchance of Death by Elizabeth Linington; Ruling Passion by Reginald Hill; Voices on the Wind by Evelyn Anthony; A Taste of Death by P.D. James; Glittering Images by Susan Howatch; The Silver Touch by Rosalind Laker; Murder on the Aisle by Mary Higgins Clark (Editor); Search the Shadows by Barbara Michaels; Leaving Home by Garrison Keillor; Savages by Shirley Conan; Happy Are Those Who Thirst for Justice by Andrew M. Greeley; One man Posses by Max Brand; Flowers in the Attic by V.C. Andrews; If There Be Thorns by V.C. Andrews; Petals on the Wind by V.C. Andrews; Seeds of Yesterday by V.C. Andrews.

Adult non-fiction—Walls, Ceilings and Woodwork by Time Life; We Hold These

Mr. and Mrs. Kurt G. Brown

BROWN - TOWNSEND

Tammy Jean Townsend and Kurt Greenleaf Brown were married Aug. 29 in an 11:30 a.m. double-ring ceremony at the Windham Hill United Methodist Church. The officiating minister was Calvin Libby.

The bride is the daughter of Cecil W. Townsend and the late Barbara Pendexter Townsend of Windham. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. Brown of Bethel.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore her mother's gown of Chantilly lace which featured a hoop skirt. Her headpiece was a brimmed hat with attached fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

The matron of honor was Joleen Varney, friend of the bride, and the flower girl was Kate Nickerson, niece of the bridegroom.

The matron of honor was Rob Noll. George Nickerson, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was usher and Mary Jeffery, friend of the bride, was usherette. Vocal soloist was Shelley Morrell, and the organist, Elizabeth Hall, friends of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Portland Club on State Street in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown are now residing at Long Lake, Harrison.

The bride is employed as personnel director at Porteous in South Portland. The bridegroom owns and operates Photography by Brown in Norway.

The Mill Brook Tavern is open for lunch and lighter fare everyday year-round

You won't find any off-season or banker's hours in our Tavern. We are open for lunch from noon 'til 3 p.m. and serve lighter fare until closing . . . everyday!

"Sure the hours are good, but how about the food?" Marlene has taken the helm in the Mill Brook Tavern kitchen and in the short time she has been with us her culinary ability and imagination

A lovely morning after the rain and wind of yesterday. It looks like a good day outside. Some colder but that was the prediction so guess it is to be expected as October nears the end of the month.

I came home last Friday from the New England Rehabilitation Hospital as my lungs were giving me a bad time. I have so many allergies and there were too many smells around the hospital that I am allergic to, so had to give up the program there and come home. They aren't equipped to doctor allergies like mine so didn't have too much choice, if I wanted to keep breathing.

I can tell you that that isn't like any regular hospital. You don't stay in a bed or travel around in your nightie and robe. You are up and dressed, make your own bed and clean up your things so the housekeepers can dust and wash floors. Doctors come around by 7:30 or soon after and at either 8:30 or nine in the morning, you start attending classes. Usually warm up classes begin the day for all who can travel and are in the same pain unit with you. There were 10 of us in our unit and all had chronic pain of some sort. Most of them had trouble with their backs. Mine isn't too good but I haven't had any operations as the most of others had had. The exercises were to get one limbered up to carry them throughout the day. We had occupational exercises, physical exercises, stress management classes, patient meetings so we could air our gripes, patient family meetings where the family was welcome to come and find out what was going on; body mechanic classes to show how to do things properly so one wouldn't put so much strain on their backs; relaxation classes where we listened to relaxing tapes or the therapist talked to help us relax. We had one or two in the class who really relaxed and would start to snore. It was rather comical in that respect. There were staff meetings which gave us a little more time to relax as we were free during this time. Group exercises were interesting as we each were given special exercises for our trouble, whatever it was; group ambulation was going for a walk in a group and helping us to stand or walk longer than we had been able to before. We had to take our pulse rate before we started and again when we got back from the walk. It got us out of the building when the weather was fair the day of group ambulation. We had an outing or prepared a meal each week. This was planned during leisure planning class. Anatomy was another class, health education with the dietitian was interesting; Tuesdays and Thursdays, some of us went to the Y.M.C.A. to use the pool to exercise in. The big trouble with that was the overpowering smell of chlorine which made my lungs burn as though on fire. The community meeting was made up of the patients and the staff. Family members were welcomed if present at the time. Reevaluation was done after the second or third week but I escaped that. However, I am walking without the help of my cane and am stronger in my muscles. They don't take away the pain but try to help one learn to cope with it without the use of pain killers. The relaxation sessions help in that way. Independent relaxation was one of the things we were to do on our own, each day as well as independent walking. This will give you an idea of what the program there is all about. For someone like me, it was extremely hard where my lungs got involved with all the different smells can perfume, tobacco smoke, spray can odors, fragrance from the linens brought back and too many others to mention. I am glad of the help where my muscles are concerned but hope it won't be long before my lungs clear as they still bother alot. Hopefully the good country air will help me to get the lungs cleared.

Russell and Peggy have done lots of canning while I was gone and did a lot of freezing of cauliflower and squash or whatever there was to be done. We are still freezing cauliflower every few days when some are ready. Russell planted so many purple headed ones that there have been oodles to freeze. We shouldn't run short this winter, that is for sure. The vegetables sure taste better when done at home. We decided to try something else where some of our tomatoes were concerned and made some tomato sauce on Sunday. Never made any before but it tasted good and a way to use some of the tomatoes up. Had a couple of loads of wash to do when I got home and lots to take care of. Kept me out of mischief

Middle School hockey teams finish with wins

Both the varsity and junior varsity Telstar Middle School field hockey teams ended their seasons last week with wins over their Fryeburg counterparts.

That gave both squads winning seasons. The varsity finished 7-2, while the JV's ended their season at 4-3-2. Middle School Coach Sally Hannon was delighted that 43 girls turned out for the sport this year—most of them with no previous field hockey experience. She said this would prove beneficial for the field hockey program at Telstar.

Didn't think for awhile Monday that I would go to Grange that night as I didn't feel the best but decided to go just the same. We had a Halloween meeting where all were to come dressed up in some costume. It was great fun and I enjoyed it alot. It was good to be back among friends and not have to worry about running into something to upset my breathing. Not much perfume worn there and I'm grateful.

I would like to thank everyone who sent me a card as they were greatly appreciated. One looks forward to receiving cards or letters in whatever hospital they are in.

Peggy went to the dance Saturday night as usual and enjoyed kicking up her heels. Russell and I stayed home and kept one another company. I have lots of crocheting to do and with doing exercises to keep up where I left off, I sure can keep busy.

Russell and Peggy went to Lewiston yesterday for an appointment Russell had. As he can't drive, Peggy acts as chauffeur for him and myself, also. I hope to be able to drive farther now but don't know just how much farther as yet. Makes a difference how my legs are doing.

I sat and looked out the window yesterday afternoon as the rain and wind beat around the place and couldn't help but compare the sight across the road to a winter snow storm as the leaves were falling so fast and swirling around before hitting the road. Sometimes a car came along and the leaves would fly as a dry snow would and made me think of what we will be getting before we know it. I love the colors and there have been such lovely sights to behold this fall. The trees in Portland were still heavily laden with leaves and the colors were quite vivid. It was a pleasure to behold and when we got out of the city and I could breathe the good fresh country air, that was great, also. I am not a city girl and never would be. Give me the good old country air to breathe and the beauty of the trees and flowers instead of the buildings of a city, anytime.

I have just one thing to say if anyone would think of going to the Rehabilitation Hospital and that is that they should be healthy as a horse, other than the chronic pain. They help but if one has lung trouble as I do, forget it and do exercises at home.

Take care one and all and thanks again for the cards and letters.

Almost forgot to put in that West Paris Grange will be having a harvest supper on Nov. 5 and will have some of the folks from Chapel Valley Home there to entertain. The Lecturer's program will be at seven thirty so the visitors can participate in it for enjoyment. Wilbur Libby will be showing slides pertaining to forestry. It should be most interesting for all. The supper will be at 6:30.

West Paris Grange will be holding a dance on Nov. 7 and in December on the 5th of the month, there will be a Christmas and food sale at the Grange Hall. A number of people will be having items for sale and there will be tables

W. Paris Baptist Church hosting costume party

The West Paris Baptist Church will be hosting a costume party on Saturday, Oct. 31, from 7-8:30 p.m. This is an evening for all ages to enjoy. There will be refreshments, singing and games. The community is invited to attend—so come in costume for an evening of fun.

If anyone needs a ride, please call 674-2968.

they can have for a couple of dollars or so. That is very reasonable and hope to see many folks there. There will also be a dance Dec. 5 in the evening. Come and enjoy the music and dancing. It is good clean fun for all who like music.

As I said before, take care and have a good week.

Newry

By AMY HANSCOM

Newry's Ladies Circle will meet Nov. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at Sylvia Gray's. Gilberte Seeley was honored on her 80th birthday, Saturday, Oct. 24, at the Newry town office. She received many gifts and well wishes from friends and relatives. Theresa Toti, Rose Enos, and Karen Green of Rhode Island surprised Gil with their visit to Newry for her birthday. Karlene Bachelder made and decorated the cake.

Myrt and Dick Dickey, Whitman, Mass., and Randy, Jo and Jason Swan, Barre, Vt., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Swan.

Louise Tetley, Karlene Bachelder, Thelma Lowery, Betsy Clark, June Swan and Beatrice Lowell were in Rumford bowling Oct. 21. Gilberte Seeley was high scorer on both single and triple strings. Mrs. Seeley celebrated her 80th birthday Oct. 24.

Bible study was held at the home of Sue Wight, Oct. 19, with Sue Wight, Susan Bowie, Gilberte Seeley, Sylvia Wight, June Swan, Olive and Jim Anderson and Freda Robertson attending. The group sang "Happy Birthday" to "Gil." She received gifts and a birthday cake made and decorated by Susan Bowie was served. The Bible study class is held Mondays at 10 a.m. Everybody is welcome.

Newry ladies attending Sue Wight's art classes at the Bethel House are Susan Bowie, Sylvia Gray, Freda Robertson, Gilberte Seeley, and Olive Anderson.

The title of Pastor Hanscom's message Sunday morning, Oct. 18, was "Keep Calling." Marsha Moxey read the scripture from St. Luke 18:1-8.

The polls will be open at the municipal building for the general election from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scott, Chester, N.J., were at their camp for the weekend.

The cookie parade and bake sale held at the IGA store on Oct. 23 to benefit the Newry Community Church was very successful. Thanks to everyone who helped.

Food distribution Oct. 29 at Bethel Legion Hall

In cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Oxford County Community Services will distribute cheese, rice, butter and cornmeal Thursday, Oct. 29, at Legion Hall on Vernon Street in Bethel, from 10 a.m. to 2 a.m.

The food supplies from surplus storage of the U.S. Government will be available to low-income families in Oxford County. Families meeting income guidelines will include households eligible under the following programs: Home Energy Assistance (HEAP), Elderly Tax and Rent Refunds, Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), Food Stamps, Elderly Drug Card, Medicaid Card or Supplemental Security Income (SSI).

A family of two or less will receive one pound of butter, five pounds of cheese, two pounds of rice and five pounds of cornmeal. Families of three or four members will receive two pounds of butter, 10 pounds of cheese, four pounds of rice and 10 pounds of cornmeal. Larger families will receive increased amounts of these food products.

The homebound may have a relative or friend pick up for them. Recipients are asked to bring their own paper bags.

The West Paris Grange dance will be held Nov. 7 and a Flea Market will be held at the Grange Hall Dec. 5.

Michael Spencer finished his work in Massachusetts Oct. 23 and has come to be with his family who recently moved into the Reidy Trailer. He will drive a big trailer truck for the Country Kitchen Bakery. He has tried out the job during his vacation and he likes it.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher went to Rangeley to moose country Oct. 19. They saw the first two moose that were tagged. Then Joe helped two men from Connecticut pull a moose out of the woods. One man had a broken arm in a cast so he couldn't do very much with only one hand. He said he wasn't staying home just because he broke his arm.

About 300 feet from the two men, Eveline shot a picture of a moose three feet from the main road. He didn't seem to be afraid.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Abbott went to Rangeley, Sunday, Oct. 18 with Fay's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Newton of Mechanic Falls as Mr. Newton had a moose permit. One son also went. They came home Monday night with a moose on the trailer so Tuesday they got it ready to go to Tom House's.

Pianist at Gould Thursday evening

By HARRIETT STOWELL

Pianist Allen Barker returns to Gould Academy this week for a concert performance. Mr. Barker has concertized extensively in the United States and Europe and appeared on a number of occasions with the Boston Pops under Arthur Fiedler. His program at Gould will include works by Mendelssohn, Schubert, Liszt, Debussy, and Bartok.

The concert is open to the public at no charge and begins at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 29, in Bingham Auditorium.

Callers at Lawrence's were: Jimbo Coffin, Lena Dean, Joe Kalnowski, Ellen Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Downing. Dean Benson, a teenager went to Sebomnick, Moosehead Lake, for his moose and he was huge, the rack of antlers spanned five feet. They dressed it or rather took the skin off at Warren Emery's and at times they used a back hoe or something to lift it up. It took 14 bags of ice to fill the stomach cavity. Somebody should have a mooseburger for supper.

A bit of white stuff for this Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lovejoy have returned to Traverse City, Mich., after visiting relatives for several days.

Mary Butler of Union was here for the 90th anniversary celebration of the West Bethel Union Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Borges of Turlock, Calif., have been spending some time with Alanson and Fannie Cummings enjoying the foliage and taking trips to various points of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Head were in Natick, Mass., last weekend to attend the wedding of Arthur's cousin, Charles Akers.

Many from town attended the retirement party honoring Robert Davis after 40 years with the Bethel highway department.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Lovejoy and Alanson and Tyrene Lovejoy were in Rumford last Thursday evening to help Ray and Dorothy West observe their 15th wedding anniversary.

Pleasant Valley Grange met last Thursday and planned a harvest supper to be held at the Grange Hall on Nov. 14. The next meeting will be on Nov. 12.

Franklin Grange will meet on Monday, Nov. 2.

The Woodstock Extension met at the Grange Hall on Wednesday to make things for the open house in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt and Beatrice Farnum visited Ione Douglas and Roberta and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnson and family, Manchester, Conn. and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hoover, Avoca, N.Y., last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Glines and Jolyn, Danbury, N.H., and Jane Ring, Freeport, were weekend guests of Helen Ring.

The Woodstock Senior Citizens will meet on Nov. 5 at the Town Hall. The Woodstock alumni will serve the dinner.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. The program will feature a presentation by Geraldine S. Howe on the history of Railroad Street, which has been an important commercial and residential avenue from the middle of the 19th century. Here once stood Bethel's Grand Trunk Railroad depot, a shipping and passenger terminal for generations.

Also on this street was the home of the town's most noted architect, Thomas Holt, whose Italianate residence was demolished in the mid-1960s. [The structure was located on what is now a portion of the parking lot of the Bethel Area Health Center.] Mrs. Howe has been researching this topic for some time and many slides of older views of the street have been collected for viewing.

Anyone having further light and/or artifacts, photographs or anecdotes to shed about the history of this street and its people is urged to attend this meeting.

For several years the Society, which is dedicated to preserving and interpreting the local past, has been featuring programs on particular aspects and sections of Bethel. By focusing on specific topics and areas of the town it is possible to gather much information, many photographs and other materials relating to the history of the town in a more systematic way. One these presentations are made at monthly meetings they often find their way usually in expanded form into the Society's quarterly, The Bethel Courier. In this way, the Society carries out one of its missions of service to the community and serves a vital educational role. These efforts are the product of numerous volunteer hours on the part of the presenters as well as all those who search their attics and closets for items that pertain to the subject at hand.

The 1988 Bethel Historical Society Calendar is now at the printers and is expected to be available soon. One again

Autumn has come with a vengeance lately—or should I say a touch of winter. We did have a few lovely warm days for this time of year, and the rain we got was surely needed. I always get anxious this time of year when it is very dry and leaves coming down by the bushel. It was lovely looking across the field when the leaves were at their brightest because they were so beautiful. There was no need for me to go touring as there was no more beautiful spot than right here. Not much news this week again.

Mrs. Florence Hastings and Mrs. Lillian Bartlett attended the Retired Teachers' meeting at Sunday River Lodge last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Harrington attended the funeral of Mrs. Lila Bartlett Tenney in Gorham, N.H., Oct. 20. She was 91 years old.

Mrs. Chester Harrington, Mrs. Wayne Bean, Staci and Jennifer Bean, visited Mrs. Carl Hallman in Durham, Sunday, of last week.

Eric Hastings and fiancée, Celeste Chamberlain of Boston were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hastings over the weekend.

Ellen Hastings hockey team won over Yarmouth recently. Congratulations!

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Tuominen of Yarmouth visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kimball over the weekend.

Mrs. Josephine Tyler of Dixfield; Mrs. Cindi Cox and Miss Chick Fitzmorris visited me, Oct. 17, and we all enjoyed playing "Hand and Foot Canasta." Mr. and Mrs. John Foster took me to Norway Oct. 19 to the doctor's to learn the results of all the tests I had taken the week of so before. All tests were okay, thank the Lord! Mrs. Richard Stearns and Eric Westleigh took me to Rumford shopping on Oct. 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, with Mrs. Freda Edmunds and Mrs. Lillian Moore of South Paris attended the funeral of Mrs. Lila Bartlett Tenney in Gorham, N.H. Mrs. Tenney was born in the Henry Swan place, 91 years ago. Her sister, Mrs. Myrtle Bartlett Wing is in the Lodgeview Nursing Home in West Paris, the last one of that family.

This unique Bethel "institution" features photographs from the town's past which are part of the Society's collection. Anyone wishing to order is urged to call the Society at 824-2908.

CARD OF THANKS

Many thanks to all my friends and neighbors who sent flowers and cards, visited and phoned and especially for your many prayers during my recent hospitalization. A special thank you to neighbors and friends who used their time and cars to keep me "on the go" before surgery. All kindnesses and support will long be remembered and appreciated by my family and me.

State will pay for weatherizing your home

Homeowners and renters in the SAD #44 area will have the chance to obtain $75 worth of free weatherization materials, and the skills to install or use the materials in their home, through a series of free workshops funded through a special grant received by SAD #44 Adult and Community Education.

According to Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell, WHIME (Weatherize Homes in Maine) workshops have been scheduled for three locations in the area during the month of November. To qualify for the free materials, a person must attend two sessions of the course, but need not attend each at the same site.

WHIME workshops will be held on Mondays, Nov. 9 and 16, at Telstar Regional High School in Bethel, on Tuesdays, Nov. 10 and 17, at the Woodstock School in Bryant Pond, and on Monday, Nov. 23, and Tuesday, Nov. 24, in Andover at the Fire Station. All workshops will run from 9 to 9 p.m.

Tim O'Connor, Industrial Arts teacher at Telstar, was selected to attend WHIME training in Augusta on Oct. 17, sponsored by the Maine Office of Energy Resources. According to Mr. O'Connor, class time will be spent on such topics as radon problems, air infiltration, and moisture problems. Class participants will conduct an energy audit of their house or apartment during the workshop period, and will become acquainted with the steps they need to undertake to lower fuel bills.

Upon successful completion of both sessions, each participant will receive vouchers for materials appropriate to their needs which may be redeemed at local hardware and building supply dealers.

Although the workshops are free, pre-registration is necessary to insure that there is sufficient enrollment for the session to be held. To sign up, call the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program, 824-2780.

Deer season opens

The deer hunting season opens this Saturday, for Maine residents holding hunting licenses. It begins Nov. 2 for all of those holding hunting licenses. The season lasts until Nov. 28 and allows the hunting of bucks only, with a limit of one deer annually. The hunting of antlerless deer is by special permit only.

The season on bear began Sept. 1 and will continue until Nov. 30, with a limit of one. The season for ruffed grouse and pheasant began Oct. 1.

The season on moose—by special permit only—began the week before last and has already ended.

Rotary Club notes

Cathy Newell, director of the SAD #44 Adult Education program, was the guest speaker at Tuesday's Bethel Rotary Club meeting, held at Martha's Restaurant.

Mrs. Newell spoke about the problem of illiteracy and the efforts of businesses to help solve the problem. She noted that one out of nine workers in America is functionally illiterate. (Including non-working adults, the number of Americans who cannot read above a 4th-grade level is 23 million, she said.)

Since modern business and industry increasingly requires workers to be able to deal with complex machines, ideas, forms, instructions, and calculations, business leaders are getting involved in the national effort to wipe out illiteracy. "Business people are beginning to look at their workers as a resource," Mrs. Newell said.

In addition to contributing money towards literacy programs—such as the programs being shown on ABC-TV and Public Television—business leaders are also developing literacy programs right in their own offices and factories.

Mrs. Newell said there are currently no such programs in the Bethel area, although there had been an experimental program at the Stowell mill, in Bryant Pond.

Locally, literacy classes are taught in the regular adult ed framework. However, in addition to classes, there are literacy volunteers going to the homes of some adult students.

Mrs. Newell said it is difficult to get a functionally illiterate adult to enroll in a literacy class because of the anxiety inherent in admitting to oneself that you can't read or write or do simple math. She said it is important for fellow workers, employers, family and friends to urge the illiterate individual to sign up for a literacy program.

Once the student is in class, results come quickly, and the rewards are great. Mrs. Newell told of one woman, presently in the literacy program, who is taking great delight in being able to now read The Citizen. Mrs. Newell said the woman especially enjoys reading Viva Whitman's column from "High Street, West Paris." In addition to enjoying her local paper, this woman has now been able to go out and get a job.

Bethel Outing Club's
ski equipment sale
Fri.-Sat. Oct. 30-31

Maine and New Hampshire skiers will once again take advantage of a tremendous opportunity this coming weekend as the Bethel Outing Club's 7th annual ski equipment sale gets underway. To date a dozen of the two states most prestigious shops have committed nearly 5,000 pieces of new and used alpine and cross country ski equipment, clothing and accessories—30 percent more than last year. Individuals too will be entering items for sale throughout the popular consignment sale. Club members expect an avalanche of thrifty shoppers as families, individuals, skiers new to the sport, experts and racers too, seek an opportunity to get outfitted for the coming season at bargain basement prices.

The ski sale is the B.O.C.'s primary annual fundraiser. The Bethel Outing Club is a non-profit community service organization committed to promoting and supporting nordic skiing—particularly youth nordic ski development programs—in the greater Bethel and western Maine region. Net proceeds from last year's sale, more than $5,000, has provided assistance Telstar Regional Middle/High School ski team and the Gould Academy ski team. In addition the club has sponsored other youth instructional and race programs, racing camps, the Bill Kock Youth Ski League, and individuals and coaches to particular events.

The sale will be held Friday, Oct. 30, 6:30-9:30 p.m., and Saturday, Oct. 31, 9 a.m.-1 p.m. in the Gould Academy Fieldhouse on the Gould campus in Bethel.

NOTES FROM

Boy Scouts help with wildlife projects

On June 2, 1987, a group of Boy Scouts came to the Evans Notch Ranger District of the White Mountain National Forest to help with a wildlife habitat improvement project. The project involved making temporary repairs to a beaver dam located in Stow. The dam had been abandoned by the beaver a number of years ago and as a result it had deteriorated and began leaking through the dam in several places. Because of this, the water level in the pond dropped so low as to adversely affect the waterfowl nesting population in the area.

Ryan Paradis of Mechanic Falls undertook the project to work toward his Eagle Scout classification. He was responsible for organizing a crew of fellow scouts which included Roger Paradis, Ryk Paradis, Tyson Therrian, and Reginald Harper and directing the work on the project involving the use of sand bags and a special fabric which is used to trap sediments and slow leakage. The results of their efforts were evident within just a few days as the water level in the pond increased approximately one foot which will provide many more acres of excellent habitat for waterfowl and other wildlife.

On Sept. 26 and 27, 1987 two additional Boy Scout groups came to the District and were involved in another wildlife project. Troop #135 from Fryeburg under the direction of Tom Henderson and Troop #22 from Portland under the direction of Frank Maguire spent two days cutting and removing undesirable vegetation from a wildlife opening and apple orchard in Stow. Approximately 18 scouts camped at Cold River Campground for two nights while participating in the project. The work they performed will help maintain the opening and the apple trees in the condition where they are most beneficial for a variety of wildlife.

Anyone interested in learning more about the many different types of volunteer opportunities should contact the District Ranger at 824-2134.

Middle School booters runners-up in league

The Telstar Middle School soccer team is the runner-up in the Sandy Andy League. The local booters lost to Peru last Thursday in the league championship game. The Telstar team defeated Jay, 1-0, last Tuesday in the playoff game. The locals finished the season with a 9-5 record.

Mahoosuc Arts Council continues to bring quality programs to area

Those of you who enjoyed the Mandala Dancers, Kitchen Sink Mime, Jim Scott, Rodney Richard, Godspell, New England New Vaudeville Review, and the Bennington Puppets, will be pleased to learn that the directors of the Mahoosuc Arts Council are preparing another exciting season of quality performances for the Bethel area schools and community. "Huey", a video artist, has been in Bethel for three days this fall working with teachers, parents and fifth graders at Crescent Park School. He will return again in the spring for another nine days to help the three fifth grades direct, perform and produce three video projects on Poetry, Science and Sturbridge Village. "Huey", work in the schools was made possible by an artist in Residence grant from the Maine Arts Commission.

On Nov. 21, Banjo Dan and the Mid-nite Ploughboys, a bluegrass quintet from Montpelier, Vt., will be performing in the Telstar Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. The Ploughboys add traditional songs, dealing with life in New England, to contemporary music and Appalachian sources. Their music is sure to delight audiences of all ages.

The New Black Eagle Jazz Band has appeared worldwide in a variety of concerts and festivals, on radio and television, and has produced fifteen highly acclaimed records. They will be coming to Bethel on Friday evening, April 22 to perform their interpretations of Joplin, Oliver, Armstrong, Ellington and others.

The programming committee is also in the process of booking the popular Maine group, Schooner Fare, to perform in Bethel in February. As this committee continues to pursue programs for this year and prepares for the 1988-1989 season, they hope community members will feel free to express their program preferences to any of the committee members. Carol Fiske, Bonnie Pooley, Liz Smith, Jon Smith, Marguerite Graham or Nancy Davis.

The Mahoosuc Arts Council would like to thank the Founding Sponsors Gould Academy's programs in the Arts and Humanities, and the Bethel community for the support they given the Council during its first year of development.

James Sysko (of the Planning Board), Stephen Yates and Roger Wheeler (citizens-at-large). Mr. Otten represents developers. The committee intends to review the town's ordinances and see if they still meet the needs of the town. Lee Swan submitted his resignation as director of Civil Emergency Preparedness. Mary Tripp was appointed in his place.

With the municipal playground now operational—dedication was last Saturday—the selectmen ordered the Recreation Committee to be sure that some responsible adults were present at the playground whenever children were playing there.

Last Tuesday night the Fire Department committees met with the selectmen to review their findings on what would be required for the town to set up its own fire department. (Presently the town relies on the Bethel Fire Department.)

The committees reported that it would be necessary to construct a building to house firefighting equipment. This building could also house the Highway Department truck. It was suggested that the present Highway Department truck—which was ordered sold by Special Town Meeting last month—be converted to a makeshift pump truck. This would require a vote of Town Meeting to rescind the previous vote, the selectmen said. Voters would also have to approve the purchase of land and the construction of a building.

Selectman Roger Hanscom felt that sufficient manpower for the department might be a problem, but others felt it would not be.

Committee members attending the meeting were Virgil Conkright, Tom Bonica and John Gauthier. Also attending was Don Lane, of West Peru, a salesman for new and used firefighting equipment.

The next meeting was tentatively set for Nov. 17.

Season pass sales soar at Sunday River

Sunday River Ski Resort in Newry has posted a 100 percent gain in season pass sales for the year to date. This is the largest percentage gain ever in pre-season pass sales for the western Maine resort and represents a 107 percent gain in real dollars with the increase in rates over the previous season. Advanced reservations for the on-slope condominiums have registered a 152 percent increase for the year to date. Group sales reservations including corporate ski groups and ski groups and ski clubs have increased 190 percent with many groups booking well into March. Collegiate inquiries are keeping pace with many student skis taking advantage of Sunday River's college season pass and daily discount card.

Radon workshop Nov. 2 in South Paris

A Radon Workshop for Real Estate brokers and developers will be held on Monday, Nov. 2, from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Oxford Hills High School in South Paris. Participants will learn what radon is and how it accumulates in the home. The workshop will also look at techniques for testing for radon, and methods for preventing accumulation of the gas through building renovations or in new construction.

The workshop will be led by Mark Cenci and David Johnston. Cenci, a geologist residing locally, is head of the Soils and Site Evaluation Division of Lake Arrowhead Corporation in East Waterboro. Johnston is the design and construction manager for Roki Associates of Westbrook, builders of super-insulated homes. This company has experience in radon testing for their own and other construction sites.

This program has been approved by the Real Estate Continuing Education Committee for three clock hours of credit toward fulfillment of the educational requirements for renewal of the real estate broker or salesman license. The programs should also prove very useful for developers and contractors.

Registration for this workshop may be made through the Oxford Hills Adult Education program. Registration may be made by phone by calling 743-8842, or by mail by writing to Oxford Hills Adult Education, Main Street, South Paris, Maine 04281. The registration fee is $25 for those seeking real estate renewal credit; for those interested in attending the workshop on a non-credit basis, the registration fee is only $10.

School board debates

Support for eliminating the requirement was not unanimous. Stanley Howe, of Bethel, argued that the board's credibility was at stake. "It's one more example of setting a policy and then backing down when someone questions it," Dr. Howe said. "We've got to take cost into effect."

John Foster and Darline Hall, both of Andover, sided with Dr. Howe. Mr. Foster argued for combining third- and fourth-year language classes.

In other action at Monday night's meeting, the board made a number of personnel appointments and voted to pursue the purchase of four new school buses for the 1988-89 school year.

The buses would cost an estimated $156,200, approximately 60 percent of which would be recouped from the state during the following year.

The school bus purchase must be approved by the state and later put out to bid by the board.

The board made the following personnel appointments: Laurine A. Bergeron, Denise Foster and Sheila Verrill, substitute teachers; Louise Seames, substitute secretary; Tony Berryment, high school assistant girls' basketball coach; Harry Davis, Telstar auditorium manager; Wanda Johnson, Woodstock School cheering co-coach; Peter Rackliffe, Crescent Park School soccer co-coach; Barbara Russell, high school assistant softball coach; Stewart Mason Jr., school bus driver; and Cynthia Mullen, C.P.S. composite room instructional aide.

Prior to the business meeting the board heard a presentation from Kay Chadbourne, Helen Nevitt and Arla Patch on the Elementary Creative and Talented Program.

Board member not present Monday evening: Gail Sysko, Newry.

The next regular meeting of the SAD#4 directors is scheduled for 7:30 Monday evening, Nov. 9, in the library at Telstar Regional High School.

Happy Halloween! Don't forget to come out and watch the parade on Friday at 1:15. The parade will be followed by individual parties. Grade 2 is also including a pizza party luncheon at noon. Anyone stopping to visit in the second grade will notice some pretty fancy pumpkins! Grade 3 is preparing for the annual pumpkin decorating contest. In this contest everyone is a winner. So, be looking for a list next week!

Have you noticed our new crosswalks and school crossing signs? They really do show up and are helping to remind one and all to drive carefully.

Our first meeting with parent volunteers found many willing and able workers. Several from last year are returning and others who are new to our program are donating a variety of services. Mrs. Debbie Landers is helping with the Campbell Soup labels and volunteering to do activities with us on Fridays. Mrs. Avis Hayes is working in the fifth grade on a regular basis. Mrs. Bindbeutel is enjoying helping out in the 2 grade. I will report on other volunteers and their activities in future columns.

Mrs. Merrill's artists of the week have been: Liberty Woodworth and Jodi Gilpatrick for Oct. 2, Georgia Glasgow for Oct. 16, and Mary Cox for Oct. 23.

Mr. Greg Grisby, our home/school counselor is meeting with a small group of students discussing and doing activities on the topic "Liking myself". Mr. Grisby's groups meet once a week for eight weeks and then another group meets with another topic. Mr. G. also meets with children on an individual basis.

Doug Penley, grade 6, is recuperating from a badly broken ankle and Arthur Campbell, grade 5, had to have six stitches taken on his knee cap. We wish both

GED courses available to Andover residents

The SAD #4 Adult and Community Education program has renewed efforts to provide opportunities for adults to prepare for the GED High School Equivalency Exam in Andover, according to Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell.

An instructor will work individually with adults who have not completed high school, directing their work in areas that need additional preparation prior to testing. Use will be made of the "GED on TV" series, a video-taped series that may be borrowed by students with access to a VCR.

In addition, the SAD #4 program has a variety of workbooks and study materials especially designed for GED preparation. Anyone interested in the Andover GED program may contact the Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780, or the Andover Elementary School, 392-4381. Additional GED preparation opportunities are available in Bethel and Bryant Pond.

NORTH COUNTRY SPAS OPEN IN RANGELEY

North Country Spas recently opened in Rangeley. They offer the Hot Spring brand of spa and several models are on display including a demo which is hot and ready to try in a private room.

According to Mark Hiebert, the owner, "People are becoming aware that a spa is not a frivolous item for the well to do, but a means to benefit the quality of their lives." Interestingly, most of the people who purchased a spa from Mark, (he's been selling the Hot Spring for four years) are at retirement age and fall into the average Maine income bracket. "These are people who have worked hard all their lives and want to indulge in something for themselves," says Hiebert.

All spas at North Country Spas are self-contained and portable. This means that once a spa is delivered, you just fill it with water and plug it in. It takes just under 24 hours until the water has reached soaking temperature. This temperature is maintained at your desired setting with a thermostat.

In addition to spas, there will be a line of sauna heaters and accessories available shortly. These items which will be on display are all imported from Finland and are of the highest quality.

Business workshops offered by Adult Ed

SAD #44 Adult and Community Education is presenting three "Help Yourself Business Basics" workshops, facilitated by Dodd-Blair & Associates.

The first day-long session will be on the topic of Marketing and will be held at the Bethel Inn on Monday, Nov. 2, from 9 to 4. The Marketing Workshop will focus on practical information that may be easily applied to a wide variety of small business operations. Through presentations, hands-on exercises, and group discussion, the workshop will provide a step-by-step analysis concluding in a detailed consideration of the marketing mix. Promotional strategy and budgeting will be covered as well as overall image and effective ad design.

Dodd-Blair & Associates partners Gerry Dodd and Annie Blair offered small business management overview workshops throughout the state last year, including workshops in Bethel, Bridgton and Rumford. The Marketing workshop, as well as the Time and Stress Management workshop on Nov. 15 and Managing Human Resources on Dec. 9, have been scheduled in response to the many requests for more in-depth information on those topics of high interest.

All workshops will be held at the Bethel Inn. The fee of $25 for each session includes lunch. Participants may register for all three sessions for a total of $45. To enroll, call the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education, 824-2780.

PILGRIM FELLOWSHIP HOLDING WORK DAY NOV. 7

The Pilgrim Fellowship of the West Parish Congregational Church will be holding work day in the Bethel area on Nov. 7. If you would like outdoor work done call 824-3417 and ask for Jenn. Donations will be accepted.

mitt, and throw the ball with his left hand—a process that allowed numerous runners to steal second base. Dr. Smith presented Mr. Davis with a mitt meant for southpaws.

Town Manager Rodney Lynch presented Mr. Davis with a crash helmet—for the next time he has to ride in Mr. Lynch's car. It seemed the two had a harrowing trip along the turnpike one day.

Arlene Greenleaf, of the B.E.A.R.S., gave Mr. Davis a foot-long key ring so he would never forget the time he misplaced the ambulance service's key to the town garage.

The biggest gift of the evening was a five-foot-long check for $2,000 for the couple—donations from a grateful citizenry. The selectmen also presented a monetary gift out of their own pockets.

Other mementos included a plaque from Mr. Davis' road crew, presented by Peter Young and containing the names and dates of employment of the present crew; also a plaque from the town manager and selectmen for 40 years of service; likewise a joint resolution from the Legislature—presented by Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel)—in appreciation of Mr. Davis' efforts in helping the town for 40 years. Gene Buswell presented a certificate of appreciation and a lifetime membership from the Mundt-Allen Post & Unit of the American Legion, and John MacMunn presented a letter of appreciation from the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

More than the gifts, it was the recitations of incidents in Mr. Davis' life that brought the warmest applause from the crowd. Town Clerk Merton Brown put together a projected display of photographs from Mr. Davis' life—from the time he was a child up until his daughter Becky was married, last year.

Sonny Blake, SAD #44 transportation supervisor, credited Mr. Davis for always having the latest information and intuition on any storm that might close the local schools. He said he would wake up in the middle of the night hearing the public works director on the scanner, rousing his crew and checking on their progress, and he and the superintendent of schools would then meet with Mr. Davis in the still-dark morning to decide whether or not to send out the buses for a day of school. Mr. Blake said Mr. Davis was the town's weatherman all these years, in addition to being the road chief.

Roger Conant—one of Mr. Davis' hunting companions—noted that the time the hunters head for camp is generally the time Bob Davis celebrates his birthday. While Stan Fox normally expropriated the birthday cake by Bob's mother, the rest of the companions toast the celebrant with whatever is available for toasting. One year it happened to be some extra-potente Bacardi rum, which left Mr. Davis hanging out the window, with his hunting buddies crooning "Happy Birthday" to him from the ground below.

Arnold Brown related the numerous times he was pulled out of ditches by the ever-present road foreman, and his inability to ever return the favor—even after he got himself a tractor. His message was that Mr. Davis was always for him and he just kicked us in the teeth."

Representing the planning board, Victor Young said, "We felt that it was a major violation that had been carried on for far too long and that he was willingly dragging on the offense."

At stake in part in the matter is the credibility of the planning board, which has only recently been reconstituted. "[In the past] the planning board was not as on top of things as it is now," Young said, "but now we're putting in two or three nights a week in meeting or classes."

The three selectmen and Young agreed that the town's regulatory system has been greatly strengthened over the past year, and that the key to continued improvement was better communication and coordination among the selectmen, planning board, appeals board and code enforcement officer.

Or, as Edith Davis put it, "This fooling around and bickering has got to end."

In other action at their regular meeting last week the selectmen took under consideration the concerns of Alpine Shore Drive residents regarding the narrow turnaround at the end of the road, which according to SAD#44 transportation officials is too small to allow a full size bus to turn around.

The selectmen also discussed possible sources of funding to correct inadequate sewerage systems in the town, and they voted unanimously to recommend that voters support three bond issues on the Nov. 3 ballot. The issues, which also have the support of the Maine Municipal Association, are those calling for $8 million to be raised to clean up solid happy to do favors for people, but rarely asked for one in return.

Former Town Manager Norm Ness, who, with his wife Jean, came to the celebration from Orono, said to Mr. Davis, "The thing that impressed me most during my stay here in Bethel was your patience."

Present Town Manager Rodney Lynch said he enjoyed working with Mr. Davis and always appreciated his frankness. Arlan Jodrey, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said the board would miss Mr. Davis' dedication and knowledge. "We're going to be calling on you for advice in the future," he said.

Mr. Davis, after sitting through the comments of all the wellwishers, said, "I'll probably miss being out there this winter, but it's probably time I stepped down and let somebody else do the job. You've got a good bunch of fellows at the town garage." (The selectmen and town manager are still searching for a new public works director. The next step in the search is interviewing candidates.)

Among those at the celebration were the town manager and road foreman from Norway, the widow of former Town Manager Elwyn Dickey, suppliers of road materials to the town, and, of course, the Davis' family, local firefighters, friends.

Woodstock voters to have chance to express opinion on town's future

In addition to voting on statewide issues Tuesday, Woodstock voters will also have the opportunity to tell local officials and planners what kind of a future they want for their town.

A 10-page "Comprehensive Plan Review Questionnaire" developed by the town's Comprehensive Plan Committee will be available in the Town Office on election day. The questionnaire asks voters what they think of the town's growth rate, services, housing, economic resources, natural resources and environment, recreational facilities, educational opportunities and its ordinances and regulations. It also asks for individual and household statistical information to be used in the planning process.

The Comprehensive Plan Committee estimates that it will take about an hour to complete the questionnaire.

Town Manager Kathleen Mersereau stresses that active participation by townspeople is essential to the success of the planning process. "The committee put in a lot of hard work and produced an outstanding questionnaire," she said, "Now it's up to the townspeople to make their opinions known."

Franklin Grange #124

Franklin Grange #124 met on Oct. 19 for a regular meeting and Halloween Party.

There were 24 present including visitors from Mt. Sugarloaf, Oxford, West Paris, and Shelburne, N.H. Dot became an affiliated member whom Franklin Grange was very glad to accept as she always helps in many ways.

Cards were signed to be sent to Olive Davis, Kay Billings and Mrs. Agnes Coffin. All were happy to have Viva back with us again.

As Olive was having trouble with her eye the following program was presented by Lettie.

There were sixteen who came all dressed up for Halloween, great sports. Mystery March; Opening Song by all, "We're Here for Fun." All in costume paraded around the hall for the benefit of the judges who were: Harriette Estes, Jean Vancour, and Harold Canwell. They had a hard time deciding but finally settled on Roberta Raimy, Carl Brooks and Ralph Hoyt. Fortunes were read; A skit was presented by Russell Yates and Peggy Blake; A game, throwing candy kisses into pumpkins; closing song and closing thought.

Thanksgiving basket tickets were given out.

The installation of Bear River Officers was reported on and all hope they will become active again.

The next meeting is to be on Patriotism. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Notes from the

Woodstock Historical Society

Here is a comment on Benjamin Franklin's service as ambassador to France:

"Throughout his stay in Paris, Franklin was the sensation of the day. Everybody flocked to see the son of an American tallow chandler who looked like a peasant and talked like a god. The populace cheered him, the ladies lionized him, and even the king addressed him with respect."

The next Society meeting will feature Buzz Gamble of the Conservation Camp.

WEST PARIS SENIOR CITIZENS

On Oct. 6 the West Paris Senior Citizens group met for lunch at the Goldstreet Restaurant in South Paris. No meeting was conducted.

On Nov. 3 a Thanksgiving Dinner at the West Paris Legion Hall will be catered by Lodgeview. The West Summer Senior Citizens are invited guests. The regular monthly meeting will be held following the dinner.

WALKING WITH JESUS CHRIST
A follow up to those who made the decision to accept Jesus Christ as their own personal Lord and Savior.

Now that you asked Christ to come into your heart and life—let's go on and try to understand what took place. We will use—in part—Billy Graham's method. You prayed—committing your life to Christ—what does the Bible say happened? "You are saved"—Jesus said. "I am the door; if any man enter in, he shall be saved." John 10:9

Revelation 3:20 says "Behold I stand at the door and knock, if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me."

"You are saved." "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord, shall be saved." Romans 10:13

"You are a child of God"—the Bible says so! "But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the children of God, even to them that believe on his name." John 1:12

"You have eternal life." The Bible says "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish but have everlasting life." John 3:16

Now then—there is the need to understand the Bible. When you became a child of God—the Holy Spirit—God's own Spirit, came into your heart and life. Here then, are a few things that are yours. God's eternal plan has taken place—you are redeemed—your citizenship is in heaven—members of God's household—even a royal priesthood—you were personally designed by God—you have gifts that God has given you. Read 1 Corinthians 12th chapter.

It is suggested that you carefully read the Book of John—go slow—pray such as this: "Dear God help me to understand—teach me—help me in my walk with Jesus Christ—thank you—I pray in the name of Jesus." It is now important to get into a Bible believing fellowship—you will enjoy regular church attendance on Sunday—both mornings and evenings—with midweek Bible study—prayer and praise at church.

Now then, some of the "proof of the pudding" that you will encounter is—as you take your stand for Christ people may ridicule you—you will be surprised at some reactions—even from family and friends. The reason may be that according to the latest Gallup poll—four out of five of your friends consider themselves to be Christians. But what Gallup didn't ask was this: What does it take to make someone a Christian? An AT&T Tract-855 by Luis Palau—lists what some think it takes. Living a good life, going to church, being baptized, taking communion, believing in God, talking about Jesus Christ, praying, reading the Bible, etc. The truth is that while many of the items are Christian activities—not one of them can make you a real Christian. Surprised?

Your testing will come—be sure of that—have no fear—your name is written in the Book of Life—for example: Revelation 20:15. Take your stand—God will help you—tell others how you became a Christian.

God bless you.

WALKING WITH JESUS CHRIST
A follow up to those who made the decision to accept Jesus Christ as their own personal Lord and Savior.
Now that you asked Christ to come into your heart and life—let's go on and try to understand what took place. We will use—in part—Billy Graham's method. You prayed—committing your life to Christ—what does the Bible say happened? "You are saved"—Jesus said. "I am the door; if any man enter in, he shall be saved." John 10:9
Revelation 3:20 says "Behold I stand at the door and knock, if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me."
"You are saved." "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord, shall be saved." Romans 10:13
"You are a child of God"—the Bible says so! "But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the children of God, even to them that believe on his name." John 1:12
"You have eternal life." The Bible says "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish but have everlasting life." John 3:16
Now then—there is the need to understand the Bible. When you became a child of God—the Holy Spirit—God's own Spirit, came into your heart and life. Here then, are a few things that are yours. CENTRAL MAINE POWER

Community theatre to perform 'Cabaret'

This November the Ragtag People Theatre and The Bethel Inn & Country Club will present an after-dinner production of the musical hit "Cabaret." Performances are scheduled each Friday and Saturday night throughout the month in the Bethel Inn Conference Center. Curtain time, 9 p.m.

The cast is comprised of community performers within a 60 mile radius of Bethel under the direction of Burt deFries. Performing dramas and musicals in Oxford County since 1982, many of the Ragtag members are from the local businesses and professional ranks as well as the student and faculty bodies of Mexico, Rumford, Telstar and Oxford Hills high schools.

This is the seventh cooperative endeavor between Ragtag and The Bethel Inn, following sold out performances of "Hello Dolly," "Man of La Mancha" and "Jacques Brel." These productions have now become a popular tradition in the spring and fall due to the support of enthusiastic audiences from the local area and vacationing guests who arrive from throughout New England.

"Cabaret" opened on Broadway in 1966 and gained wide popularity with Bob Fosse's 1972 film starring Liza Minnelli. Joel Gray and Michael York. In its song and action, "Cabaret" epitomizes the decadence of the late 20s and social denial of the initial rise of the Third Reich. The musical has once again returned to the New York stage with Gray currently performing his original role.

'Odyssey of the Mind' introduction meeting

Several parents and teachers from the S&D #44 area have been exploring the possibility of offering an Odyssey of the Mind program to area students. Odyssey of the Mind is a way to encourage students to think creatively, as they work in teams to solve challenging problems.

Several Maine school districts have found this to be an exciting program. It can be offered to students in grade school, middle school and senior high school. On Monday, Nov. 2, at 7 p.m. parents, teachers, and others who wish to learn more about the Odyssey of the Mind program are invited to the Telstar library for an informal meeting.

Telstar booters eliminated in 1st round of playoffs

A 3-0 first-round playoff loss to Yarmouth Saturday ended the championship hopes of the Telstar soccer team.

"We played well," said Coach Bob Remington, "but Yarmouth was just the best team we saw all season."

Remington praised his squad for giving their best, even when behind by two goals.

"It was the first time this season that we were behind by more than one goal, and I wondered how the team would react. They showed me a lot of character and maturity out there."

Remington noted that four members of the year's team have been named to the Mountain Valley Conference All Star team: Greg Gould, Amos Kimball, and Chris Bennett were selected for the first team, and Todd Davis for the second team.

Looking to next year, Remington said he'd be pleased to have another year as good as this one.

"I'm not sure that we'll have the same depth," he said. "We'll be losing some key players, but we've got some very good players returning. It'll be a matter of making the right adjustments."

The Telstar booters ended their season with a 11-3-1 record in Western Maine Class B play.

Water district lifts droseoggin River by Pat Murphy's farm, below the Rte. 2 bridge. The district can store a week's worth of water in a reservoir on top of Paradise Hill, but normally uses the water directly from Chapman Brook except in the spring, when excess turbidity often causes the system to rely on the reservoir. In West Bethel, the water district supplies water from wells.

Mr. Katlin said the district needs to drill wells on the village side of the Androscoggin River as well, in order to continue to have adequate water supplies as the building trend in town continues. He said the present supply of water could be easily impeded if anything happened to the pipe under the Androscoggin. In that case, the supply in the reservoir would be insufficient to supply both household needs and firefighting needs.

Mr. Katlin added that drilling wells would be costly and permission would be needed from the state Public Utilities Commission to borrow money for such a project. He said an alternative is to seek assistance from developers whose projects will benefit from hook up to the municipal water supply. He said, however, the district could not legally charge an impact fee—such as the sewer department does—without permission from the PUC.

Looking to next year, Remington said he'd be pleased to have another year as good as this one.
